

SUN PHOTO BY LORELEI GOFF

The Greeneville Planning Commission voted to approve the site plan for Holston United Methodist Home for Children's proposed Christian Life Center. This photo shows the bank that will be cleared for the construction. The area the Christmas angel sits on will become expanded parking for the facility.

Preliminary Plan Approved For Holston Home Expansion

The preliminary plan for Holston United Methodist Home for Children's proposed Christian Life Center, to be located on a sloping tract of Holston's property between the Beacon School and a residential group home for clients, was also approved.

The project will include an expansion of the existing parking area.

Holston Home President & CEO Bradley Williams said previously that he hopes the facility will not only serve as a worship center, but also as a social hub for the youth. Holston Home officials initially announced plans for the facility in 2015.